Five Tips from the FTC to Protect Yourself Online

1) Lock Down Your Accounts Online

- a. Your password is the key to all personal information in your account. Make it long. Avoid common words and don't reuse them.
- b. If it is available in your accounts, turn on multi-factor authentication for an extra layer of security.

2) Secure Your Home Wi-Fi Network

- a. Your wireless network is the hub that connects your devices. To protect it from hackers:
  - i. Encrypt it.
  - ii. Change your default passwords.
  - iii. Keep it up to date.

3) Protect Your Computer and Phone

- a. Once your home Wi-Fi is secure, focus on protecting your devices.
- b. If you are using a computer to go on-line, make sure your security software, operating system and Internet browsers are up to date. Turn on automatic updates to keep up with the latest protection.
- c. Keep your phone up to date also.

4) Recognize Attempts to Steal Your Personal Information

- a. Scammers try to trick you into giving them your personal information. They will pretend they are with any organization that you know well - like Apple or Amazon - and make up a reason they need some information from you. They are also impersonating FED-EX, US Postal Service, UPS, Social Security Administration, FTC and banks.
- b. If you get a phishing email or text message, report it.

5) Back Things Up

- a. Back up important information you have on your computer and phone. That way, if something does happen, you can quickly recover your information.
- b. Concerned about protecting your privacy online? Check out the FTC's guide to protect your privacy online.
